

Marissa Sunny

Marissa's journey in the animal industry began in 2014 as a dog trainer. Through valuable mentorships, she evolved into a skilled dog behavior consultant, contributing her expertise to enhance the lives of animals across Southern California. Marissa's commitment led her to Best Friends Animal Society in Los Angeles, where she held various pivotal roles, including Volunteer Coordinator, Behavior Specialist, Lifesaving, and Care Supervisor, and Operations Strategist.

In her current role as the Animal Resource Center Manager at Pasadena Humane, Marissa oversees admissions, community resources, and spearheads shelter diversion efforts. Her passion for creating positive outcomes for animals is evident in her strategic and compassionate approach. Marissa resides in Los Angeles with her two dogs.
