

LISA HAMMOCK

East Bay SPCA

Shelter Manager

Lisa has been a part of the animal welfare world for the past 16 years. What originally started out as a way to fill her time after finishing classes at UC San Diego, volunteering for a non-profit feline rescue quickly became a passion. In 2010, Lisa moved back to the San Francisco Bay area and joined the East Bay SPCA. Since then, she's had the opportunity to move up the ranks and hold a variety of roles including animal care, customer care, medical and foster support, and leadership roles. Lisa is currently the Shelter Manager at the East Bay SPCA, Oakland campus. This position allows her to utilize her innately analytical, yet creative, mind in the best ways possible to help the people and animals in her community.
