

Cameron Posada

Cameron is currently the Animal Operations Manager at Wallis Annenberg PetSpace in Playa Vista, CA. She oversees the Adoptions, Fosters, Intake, Animal Care, and Behavior teams and departments. She focuses her efforts on maximizing efficiency, building relationships, and updating SOPs to impact more lives. She also has a strong passion for community-support programs including increasing access to care and TNR.

She began her career in animal welfare as an Adoption Counselor at Austin Humane Society in 2016 after moving from Southern California to Austin, TX. After a year, she moved into a supervisory role, leading her team to expand their inclusivity, grow their skillset, shift to respond to emergency response intakes, and increase donations. In her final year with AHS, she was promoted to Shelter Manager before California called her back home.

She is passionate about all animals and about building access to resources for pet parents to keep pets in homes. Everyone deserves the love of a pet, and all animals deserve love and compassion from people. Her passion led her to volunteer with farm animals living out their lives at Austin Farm Sanctuary and to supporting the rehabilitation of various wildlife at Austin Wildlife Rescue.

Cameron aims to continue her growth as a leader and to further contribute to the growth of the next generation of animal welfare leaders. At home, she enjoys playing board games, reading, finding the best vegan food, and spending quality time with her 3 rescue pets, husband, and family.
