

Taylor Summers

Hello everyone; my name is Taylor Summers. I have been working in animal welfare for five years now. However, my life has revolved around animals for as long as I can remember. Growing up, I have always had a passion for animals and knew I wanted a career involving them, but I was unsure in what capacity. In high school, I worked as a store manager and groomer's assistant at a mom-and-pop pet shop but had to leave due to a relocation.

I moved to Sonoma County for college in 2017 and knew I would need a job. I stumbled upon my local shelter hiring a kennel assistant, and once I started, I knew that I was never leaving. I am now the coordinator of the animal shelter where I first started as a kennel assistant, and I could not be more thrilled. I oversee a dedicated and stupendous team while getting to provide displaced animals a temporary place to call home. Animal welfare has allowed me to be the voice for the animals I have always had a passion for.
